

The Water Policy Group (WPG) is a new facility for governments, international bodies and initiatives to easily access high-level expertise and mobilise global partners. The Group is currently in its inception phase and will become fully operational in 2019.

WHY WAS THE GROUP ESTABLISHED?

Governments, international bodies, global initiatives and water-related organisations all face existing and evolving policy challenges to deliver on water objectives. The issues are specific to the prevailing operating conditions, typically with political, economic, social and environmental dimensions.

Water leaders aspiring to deliver solutions to populations and stakeholders must constantly be seeking to ensure access to the best possible capabilities for policy advice and for developing strategic partnerships.

A unique feature of the Water Policy Group is that it is comprised only of experienced water leaders who have been decision-makers and trusted advisers within governments and international bodies handling complex water policy and strategy.

Members of the Water Policy Group understand real world challenges, and have the high-level experience, policy understanding and global connections to help you achieve improved outcomes.

WHAT WE DO

The Water Policy Group augments expertise and policy capacity for governments and global influencers on water policy options, implementation strategies, frameworks, and agendas.

The Group does this by providing expertise and capacity through its members. Every member of the WPG is a professional with substantial high-level experience, extensive networks, influence, and knowledge.

The Group can provide support through its individual members and by mobilising several members to rapidly extend impact, knowledge and outreach.

Being independent and autonomous, the Water Policy Group adds agility, speed and flexibility to your implementation needs.

The Water Policy Group can be a catalysing agent for cooperation with members' personalised networks of global and national water stakeholders as well as with their communications and media outreach that they can mobilize according to your policy needs.

Ethical, professional and trusted, the members of the Water Policy Group have the common goal that their knowledge, networks and experience can help achieve the sustainable development of water resources.

WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN WPG AND OTHER EXPERT ORGANISATIONS?

The Water Policy Group is not an incorporated body and is not seeking to maximise its reach and influence. Its only aim is to help you achieve your water objectives. Its members use their extensive experience, knowledge and networks to provide professional, confidential, and independent services.

Water Policy Group members all have direct leadership experience, knowledge and networks that can be mobilised for your needs. Clients engaging Water Policy Group members can be assured of having access to 'lived experience' in handling similar issues to those they face.

WHO DO WE WORK WITH?

Governments, public bodies, international organisations, global initiatives and water-related entities who are seeking better water outcomes by augmenting their capabilities with independent high-level experience, knowledge and networks.

WHERE DO WE WORK?

Members are of several nationalities, and based in their home cities. They will be available to work anywhere by agreement with clients.
